

Get counted!

Who are you? There has never been a full census of the public health workforce in Washington. That means we don't have solid data for talking about the important work you do.

We need your help! By participating in Public Health: Everybody Counts! you'll help ensure that all governmental public health workers are counted. Public Health: Everybody Counts! is a short survey, available online from Nov. 13 through Dec. 13, 2003.

There's more! The local health jurisdiction and Department of Health office with the highest percentage of participation will be thanked with a celebratory event. And by Public Health Week in April 2004 we'll have a report available to everyone that, for the first time, identifies the skills and credentials of our public health workforce. So get counted!

Public Health: Everyone Counts! <http://www2.doh.wa.gov/phil/survey/everybodycounts/default.htm>

Get counted!

Who are you? There has never been a full census of the public health workforce in Washington. That means we don't have solid data for talking about the important work you do.

We need your help! By participating in Public Health: Everybody Counts! you'll help ensure that all governmental public health workers are counted. Public Health: Everybody Counts! is a short survey, available online from Nov. 13 through Dec. 13, 2003.

There's more! The local health jurisdiction and Department of Health office with the highest percentage of participation will be thanked with a celebratory event. And by Public Health Week in April 2004 we'll have a report available to everyone that, for the first time, identifies the skills and credentials of our public health workforce. So get counted!

Public Health: Everyone Counts! <http://www2.doh.wa.gov/phil/survey/everybodycounts/default.htm>

Get counted!

Who are you? There has never been a full census of the public health workforce in Washington. That means we don't have solid data for talking about the important work you do.

We need your help! By participating in Public Health: Everybody Counts! you'll help ensure that all governmental public health workers are counted. Public Health: Everybody Counts! is a short survey, available online from Nov. 13 through Dec. 13, 2003.

There's more! The local health jurisdiction and Department of Health office with the highest percentage of participation will be thanked with a celebratory event. And by Public Health Week in April 2004 we'll have a report available to everyone that, for the first time, identifies the skills and credentials of our public health workforce. So get counted!

Public Health: Everyone Counts! <http://www2.doh.wa.gov/phil/survey/everybodycounts/default.htm>